President Pratt Addresses Board On "State Of The University"

Just as Presidents of nations and Governors of states each year at approximately this time present their State of the Union or State of the Commonwealth addresses, Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of Indiana University of Pennsylvania, recently presented an exposition on "The State of the University."

Speaking to his Board of Trustees of the university at their recent regular winter quarterly meeting, Dr. Pratt pointed out the fact that Indiana was granted the status of a university by act of the Pennsylvania legislature just two years ago and then went on to highlight dramatic progress made since.

Dr. Pratt maintained that Indiana University of Pennsylvania has evolved into "a genuine university" in its organization of eight schools and 34 departments, eight of those departments newly created within the past year alone.

Pointing out that nearly half of a total of almost 7000 undergraduate fulltime students are now enrolled in curricula other than teacher preparation, Dr. Pratt stated that the Graduate School now offers four different master's degrees in more than 20 academic disciplines with two doctoral programs scheduled to get underway in 1968 and 1969.

In order to competently present these various undergraduate and graduate programs, the Indiana University has appointed 170 new faculty members in the past two years alone, bringing the present total faculty to 475.

While not neglecting the more dramatic and readily apparent strides in the campus building program over the past years, Dr. Pratt cited the growth of the university's two off campus centers, of the library with an expected 300,000 volumes by the close of this academic year and of the computer center.

Dr. Pratt concluded his statement by saying, "I am confident that the Indiana University of Pennsylvania has the qualities and facilities which make up a viable university, and its continued growth and development are assured. This institution . . . is growing in stature daily and should become one of the fine universities in the Commonwealth in the future." His full text follows:

"It was just two years ago, almost to the day, that Act #430 was enacted into law, creating the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Two days later this Act became effective when the University became accredited as a university by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

"During the past two years this institution has evolved into a genuine university insofar as its organization is concerned. Eight schools have been created, including the following: School of Arts and Sciences in which 1,532 students are enrolled, School of Education in which 3,519 students are enrolled, School of Fine Arts in which 647 students are enrolled, School of Business in which 612 students are enrolled, School of Home Economics in which 545 students are enrolled, School of Health Services, School of Continuing and Nonresident Education and the Graduate School. In these eight schools there have been organized 34 departments, all with capable staffs.

"Several other new departments have been added to the program of the University during the past year, including a Department of Psychology, a Department of Educational Psychology, a Department of Learning Resources and Mass Media, a Department of Secondary Education, a Department of Economics, a Department of International Education, a Department of Business Management and a Department of Institutional Food Services.

"The enrollment of this institution has increased from an institution of 1300 students 20 years ago to one enrolling almost 7000 full-time undergraduate students and almost 1000 part-time students. The Graduate School has experienced a rapid growth in which there are now matriculated more than 5000 students in more than 20 disciplines. This school now confers the Master of Education, Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Master of Fine Arts Degrees, and the first Doctor of Education program will be initiated in September, 1968. A Doctor of Philosophy degree program in English will be initiated in 1969.

"The development of two off-campus centers, one in Armstrong County at Kittanning, Pennsylvania and one at Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, enroll approximately 500 and 250 students respectively.

"The development of the Computer Center has experienced a phenomenal growth during the past year, and its growing staff cares for not only administrative matters of the University but for instruction in computer science as well. Recently the rapidly expanding library has been completely computerized, including its ordering of books, its accessions and its use by students and adults. Holdings of the library have increased to almost 300,000 volumes, a figure which we expect to reach by the close of the current academic year.

"Beginning as a teacher preparatory institution, the University has created programs of study in many other non-educational fields, especially in the scientific disciplines, in pre-law and pre-medicine courses and in many other non-teaching areas. Presently, almost half of the students are enrolled in other than teacher-preparatory courses, and it is believed that this condition will continue for an indefinite number of years.

"Not only have the curricula and the programs increased in the past two years, but the plant itself has been greatly expanded. During the past 20 years more than 20 buildings have been added to the campus, and at the present time seven more are being constructed or soon will be. In addition to the state-owned buildings, there have been constructed at the main campus and the off-campus centers 18 private dormitories. With the completion of the seven buildings which are now under construction and two more private dormitories now being built, the number of buildings added to the campus will total 40, making a total of 52 structures in all.

"During the past two years, the Urban Redevelopment Authority project has been initiated, which will soon provide 10 additional acres of land for sites for the construction of new facilities. The elimination of the railroad tracks and adjoining substandard houses will add greatly to the beautification of the campus.

"During the past two years 170 new faculty members have been employed, making a total staff at the present time of 475. These staff members, many of whom have the Doctor's degree, have been recruited from universities throughout the country and throughout the world. For the coming year, 45 additional members of the staff will need to be recruited, most of whom, hopefully, will have the Doctor's degree.

"I am confident that the Indiana University of Pennsylvania has the qualities and facilities which make up a viable university, and its continued growth and development are assured. This institution, the fifth or sixth largest institution of higher education in Pennsylvania, is growing in stature daily and should become one of the fine universities in the Commonwealth in the future."

Indiana Given Valuable Collection By Noted Journalist & Historian

A book collection valued at more than $15,000 has been given to Indiana University of Pennsylvania by George Swetnam, well known journalist, historian and feature editor of the Pittsburgh Press for many years.

The collection, which contains approximately 3000 different titles includes more than 2000 books plus a number of magazines, pamphlets, historical monographs, etc.

Most of the works given to the Rhodes R. Stabley Library at the University deal with Pennsylvania history; many others, however, are historical works which cover the development of the entire country. Also included are a number of volumes containing general information.

In accepting the gift from Mr. Swetnam, William E. Lafranchi, head librarian at Indiana, said, "One of the marks of an excellent book collector is the attention he pays to specialty or rare items.

"Mr. Swetnam's gift, which includes many valuable Pennsylvania materials, is of considerable importance to our university's rapidly growing library and the thousands of students who use it, and the many thousands more who will use it in the future.

"The collection includes nineteenth century Pennsylvania imprints, as well as atlases, county histories, extensive runs of periodicals, an enormous volume of historical clippings, and pertinent histories of industry.

"The gift also includes items of a more personal nature such as autobiographical materials, diaries, letters and the like.

"We are extremely happy and fortunate to have been chosen to receive the gift and remain eternally grateful to Mr. Swetnam for his generosity."

According to Mr. Swetnam, the materials turned over to Indiana include works which he has collected over the past thirty years.

Council Of Alumni Associations

Makes Important Recommendations

The February meeting of the Council of Alumni Associations of the 14 State-owned Institutions of Higher Education was held at the Quality Court Motel, Carlisle, Pennsylvania Saturday, February 3, 1968 with representatives of each of the 14 institutions present. Samuel F. Furguele represented Indiana.

Ralph Kraft, representative from Millersville, presented a proposal which would ask the Council to urge the Board of Presidents and the Department of Public Instruction to clarify their positions on the establishment of a full-time Director of Alumni Affairs on each campus.

Edward Young, Council President, later read a report which was presented at the meeting of the Board of Presidents the preceding day. The report contained three specific requests which had the unanimous approval of the State Alumni Council.

First, we urge the Board of Presidents to create the title of "Director of Alumni Affairs" and to add this new position to the complement of administrative officers. Where there exists a Development Office, this Director should function as part of that office. We further urge that the position of Director of Alumni Affairs be filled on each campus at the earliest possible date by a professionally qualified individual.

Second, it is requested that the Board of Presidents place the American Alumni Council on the approved list of memberships effective September 1, 1968, and that each institution provide budgetary support for this membership. The present cost is $60 per year.

Third, that a feasibility study be initiated by the Board of Presidents directed towards the methods to be employed to incorporate "Alumni Affairs" into the organizational structure of the institution. This recommendation envisions the elimination of existing lines of cleavage between the parent institution and its alumni, with the office of Alumni Affairs becoming an integral department of the college or university deriving budgeted support, including salaries, office and other operating expenses, from the institution like any other administrative or academic department.

The treasurer's report, presented by Mrs. Janet Etshied, showed the following:

Balance, October 1, 1967	$ 29.76
Receipts	3000.00
Total Receipts	$3029.76
Expenditures	1624.43
Balance, January 28, 1968	$1405.33

A proposed budget for the Council for 1967-68 was presented. After clarification that financial support to the Council would not be used for support of ASCO activities, the budget was approved.

Also approved by Council was a recommendation by a recently-appointed By-Laws Committee that the By-Laws be amended as follows:

"That the Executive Committee consist of the four elected officers and the immediate past president (of the Council) to handle emergency situations between regular meetings of the Council."

A report on a proposal for conducting a series of regional alumni workshops presented by Samuel F. Furgiuele was accepted (text of the report appears on page 6 of this issue of the Bulletin).

President Young reiterated Council's position on four major points of concern to Council. Council voted to support its present position on these points:

1. That the state-owned institutions have the priority position on the tax monies allocated for higher education
2. That the Alumni Council endorse and support the Master Plan for Higher Education
3. That the Alumni Council endorse and support a State Board of Trustees for the thirteen state colleges
4. That the Alumni Council request greater local autonomy for the fourteen state-owned institutions of higher education in Pennsylvania.

Next meeting of the Council was scheduled for April 27, 1968 at the Quality Court Motel in Carlisle.

ASCO Holds February Meeting: Hears Report On Current Issues

The February meeting of the Association of State College Organizations was held Saturday afternoon, February 3, 1968 at the Quality Court Motel, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Thirty-four persons, including representatives of the Alumni Council, the Alumni Advisory Council, the Student Governments Association, the Board of Presidents, the Association of State College Boards of Trustees, and the American Association of University Professors were present, as were other interested persons from the 14 State-owned institutions of higher learning. Observers from Indiana were Samuel F. Furgiuele and two students, Donald McPherson and Ronald Lunardini.

The following treasurer's report was presented and accepted:

Balance July 1, 1967	$ 644.40
Receipts	5069.00
Total Receipts	$5713.40
Expenditures	5454.86
Balance January 31, 1968	$ 258.54

Charles Keller, ASCO president, reported on the following:

1. A meeting with Dr. Kurtzman, Superintendent of Public Instruction, during December 1967, for the purpose of informing Dr. Kurtzman as to the purpose and objectives of ASCO. Mr. Keller noted that the discussion had been very cordial and that there were no major areas of disagreement concerning the position of the State Colleges in the development of higher education in the Commonwealth.

2. The results of the questionnaire forwarded to the trustees of the State Colleges were indecisive due to the limited returns. However, of those returned, a majority of boards and individuals favored affiliation with ASCO.
3. A meeting with the Board of State College Presidents on February 2, 1968 for the purpose of present ASCO's position and clarification of any questions had been most profitable. He further noted that previous discussion between Dr. Kurtzman and the presidents had led to the unanimous approval of a resolution voicing support of proposed legislation, concerning more local fiscal autonomy and the creation of a central state-wide board of control for the thirteen State Colleges.
4. A meeting with Mr. Robert Bloom, Secretary to the Governor, (a former member of the Council's Advisory Committee from Edinboro) had provided an opportunity to reiterate ASCO's position to the Governor's office. It was noted that Mr. Bloom was very knowledgeable concerning the problems facing the State Colleges and not only was he in general agreement with ASCO's position concerning pending legislation, he further offered the services of his office to assist in the solution of any problems they may have.
5. Discussion with P.S.E.A. and A.A.U.P. personnel had led to offers of cooperation and support.

The next meeting was set for Saturday afternoon, April 27, 1968 at the Quality Court Motel in Carlisle.

Council Of Alumni Associations To Sponsor Regional Workshops

In accord with a proposal, recently endorsed and authorized by the Council of Alumni Associations, that regional workshops be scheduled which would strengthen local alumni associations of the 14 State-owned institutions, a committee to plan these workshops met at Indiana, Pennsylvania on Friday, December 8, 1967. In attendance were Sam Furguele of Indiana, chairman, Ed Young of Lock Haven, and Ernie Aharrh of Clarion. Don Ernakovich of Shippensburg was absent but offered several suggestions by telephone.

At the meeting the committee agreed upon the following recommendations:

1. That three workshops be scheduled—one in the western part of the State (for Indiana, Slippery Rock, California, Clarion, and Edinboro), a second in the southeast (for Kutztown, West Chester, Cheyney, Shippensburg and Millersville), and a third in the northeast (for Mansfield, Lock Haven, Bloomsburg and East Stroudsburg). For the convenience of all participants, it was hoped that Slippery Rock, Millersville, and Bloomsburg, respectively, might find it possible to host the workshops.

2. That the workshops be scheduled sometime during the fall of 1968.

3. That the workshops invite alumni of all the State Colleges and University, as well as administrators and faculty of the institutions.

4. That $500-$600 be budgeted from Council funds for each workshop.

5. That except for those whose expenses are State reimbursable, participants will have expenses paid. Whether State reimbursable or not, however, expenses for traveling and lodging will be paid by the participant.

6. That each workshop run for one day, beginning with a general luncheon meeting, then followed by several workshop sessions running concurrently and repeated so that all participants may have a chance to attend all sessions of interest, and concluding with a general dinner meeting in the evening. Workshop should conclude by 8:00 p.m.

7. Topics being considered for discussion include: organization and staffing of alumni office, alumni office facilities and office management, programing (to include service to alumni and service to the institutions), fund raising, operating budgets, communications and publications, and dues, annual giving, etc.

8. Methods of promoting were discussed and included the following:

- a. Direct mailings to key alumni.
- b. Use of Alumni Bulletins and News Letters.
- c. Personal invitations.
- d. Word of mouth.
- e. Faculty bulletins.
- f. Newspaper coverage.
- g. Preliminary program for the workshops should be sent to the 14 alumni offices for appropriate publicity and re-distribution.
- h. Each local alumni office and public relations office should receive copies of everything for use as they deem necessary.
- i. Each college and university should be responsible for promoting workshop attendance among their alumni and faculty.
- j. The State Alumni Council should be responsible for extending invitations to all local alumni officers, Executive Board members, alumni staff, and college and university administrative officers.

Deadline for news for June issue is May 1.

European Study Tour In Foods

Sponsored By School Of Home Ec.

Students of Indiana University of Pennsylvania, as well as other interested persons, will have an opportunity to experience and study European foods firsthand as the university through its School of Home Economics sponsors its first European Travel Tour in Foods during the 1968 main summer session, according to President Dr. Willis E. Pratt.

Highlights of the four week tour, scheduled for July 6-27, will be centered around a study of foods in the European countries of Austria, England, France, Greece, Italy and Switzerland as well as in New York City en route.

This tour has been planned primarily so that students can become acquainted with the manifold foods opportunities in Europe; economic aspects of food, both gourmet and plain, will be studied. Course content has been designed with both home economics majors and non-majors in mind.

This study will be accomplished through visits to famous schools of cooking, chef's schools and colleges and universities famous for foods work as well as motor trips throughout rural areas of the various European countries which are believed to be typical of food customs in those respective countries.

Tour leader will be Mrs. Bernice W. King, a member of the School of Home Economics faculty at the university since 1965. Mrs. King previously spent 12 years in teacher training work for the foreign service of the State Department and has thus traveled widely both in the United States and to 15 different countries abroad.

Believed to be unique in its particular field, this travel tour is not "offered at any other university in the manner in which this course will be conducted," according to Dr. Ella Bendix, Dean of the School of Home Economics.

For home economics majors this study can be most valuable in that it should result in a wide perspective of the field, while for others it offers an opportunity to increase their background knowledge in foods work. Educated foods people should find it a culminating experience in their work in the field of foods.

In terms of actual academic benefits to be gained, this course will provide additional knowledge as well as broader understanding of habits, tastes and talents of Europeans and their way of life. It should help promote a better cultural understanding people to people between countries.

Six undergraduate or from two to six graduate credits may be earned by participants in this tour. Enrollment is open to university students and professional teachers who qualify based on academic achievement and personal characteristics as well as to others who may not qualify for credit but who simply wish to go.

In an attempt to provide a well balanced travel and social experience as well as an academic one, side trips of both cultural and recreational interest—including opportunities to visit the opera houses of Paris and Rome as well as several other famed attractions—will be afforded.

Social aspect of the trip will include attendance at concerts and visits to art galleries, museums, historical sights and famous restaurants as well as other diversions which participants may wish to enjoy on their own. An opportunity will be given to become acquainted with European families in their homes.

Additional information on this study tour, including costs and fees, may be secured by writing to Mrs. Bernice W. King, School of Home Economics, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pennsylvania 15701.

Council of Graduate Schools in U. S. Approves Indiana's Graduate School

Indiana University of Pennsylvania's Graduate School was recently approved for full membership in the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of the university. Word was received to this effect by Dr. I. L. Stright, Dean of the Graduate School.

The Council of Graduate Schools is a national association which includes in its membership graduate divisions of colleges and universities of diversified interests and enrollments located throughout the United States. Membership in the organization must be approved by its Executive Committee.

Indiana University of Pennsylvania in September of 1957 became the first of the then 14 state colleges in Pennsylvania to offer a graduate program leading to a master of education degree. That degree is now offered by the university in a total of 18 different subject areas on all school levels.

More recently Indiana University has initiated master of science degree programs in mathematics, geography and physics as well as master of arts degree programs in English, history, counseling services and geography. A special non-degree program for learning resources specialists is offered.

Planned for the near future are doctoral programs in elementary education, tentatively scheduled to begin in September of 1968, and in English, expected to get underway the following September, which will lead to doctor of education and doctor of philosophy degrees.

The Graduate School in the first semester enrolled 839 students, 85 of them fulltime. Summer enrollments for the past 1967 sessions totaled 701 students pre-session, 967 main session and 565 post-session.

Assisting Dr. Stright with administration of the Graduate School are Dr. William W. Betts, Jr., Assistant Dean, and Dr. George T. Wiley, Director of Graduate Research.

Former Athlete Raymond Phillips Establishes Athletic Scholarships

Athletic scholarships were presented to three Indiana University of Pennsylvania athletes by Mr. Raymond Phillips, former IUP football player and 1949 graduate of the institution, at a luncheon recently held at the University.

Awarded scholarships for the current year were Dave McCullough of Dayton, Pennsylvania, Garry Lupek of Conemaugh, Pennsylvania, and Jim DeMark of Wampum, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Phillips established the scholarships last year for the purpose of aiding IUP students engaged in any sports activity at the University. Total value of the annual scholarships is $400.

Presently Mr. Phillips is owner of Phillips Enterprises, Schenectady, New York, an organization which includes an investment firm, a travel agency, an employment agency and a real estate agency. In addition to these firms which are located in Schenectady, Mr. Phillips operates an investment office in Beirut, Lebanon.

Before establishing the firm, Mr. Phillips has been associated with an investment company in Maryland as a manager for two and one-half years. Prior to that he taught and coached football in Western Pennsylvania.

In recent years Mr. Phillips has taken time to return to what he calls his first love—football. For 3½ months each year, Phillips serves as backfield coach for Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York.

Advanced English Study Institute

Approved By U.S. Office Of Education

For the fourth consecutive year in which Indiana University of Pennsylvania has applied for such assistance, the U.S. Office of Education will this summer financially underwrite an Institute for Advanced Study in English at the university.

A federal grant of $41,743 will fully cover the cost of sponsoring this institute, this year centered around language and composition instruction in Grades 3-8, for a total of 30 participants. This summer's institute is scheduled during the main summer session July 1-August 9.

The first institute for elementary teachers in the area of language arts ever to be offered in the state of Pennsylvania, this program will provide advanced study in the language and composition subject area for fulltime teachers in Grades 3-8.

In a field in which colleges and universities find themselves increasingly competitive, Indiana University will thus be offering its fourth fully sponsored English institute after initial institutes in 1963 and 1964 had been subsidized cooperatively by the university, the Department of Public Instruction and local schools from which the teachers came.

Covering composition and certain aspects of linguistic study as related content of language and composition, this summer's institute will aim to impart greater and more useful knowledge about language, more confidence in the teacher's own writing ability and an understanding of some of the effective ways to improve the language performance of students in speech and writing.

It was felt in designing an institute for teachers in Grades 3-8 that none of the expected participants have had undergraduate study in the course content of the institute, that the program will concentrate on reading and study in a few areas rather than superficially on many and that the method of instruction will provide a great deal of individual attention.

Teachers in Grades 7-8 have been included in the institute because of a felt need for a closer relationship between the elementary and middle grades in teaching language knowledge and understandings. Teachers in Grades K-2 were excluded because their concern is more with language readiness.

The institute program is the result of more than a year of discussion by director Dr. James R. Green with various elementary language arts specialists, university staff responsible for the undergraduate preparation of elementary teachers and with instructors who will be assigned to the institute.

To achieve the ends of the institute program of study, each morning will be devoted to an hour each of instruction in language and in composition, an hour conference on practical composition and a concluding hour devoted to presentation of films, speakers and other media of instruction.

Two hours of the early afternoon will be devoted to seminar discussions in small groups, and all remaining time will be reserved for individual conferences, informal discussions and related research and study activities at the discretion of the participants.

Institute director will be Dr. Green, chairman of the Department of English at the university. His staff will include Dr. Craig G. Swauger, Lorrie J. Bright and Dr. Lawrence A. Ianni, members of the English faculty.

Dr. Swauger and Bright will serve in the area of composition, while Dr. Ianni will be concerned with that of language. Dr. Ianni and Bright have been engaged as consultants in the university's elementary language arts program for the past several years.

Director of the afternoon seminar sessions will be Marion L. Street, vice-principal of Edison High School in Philadelphia and assistant director for speech improvement in Philadelphia under Title I of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act. He has also been a classroom and television teacher and Coordinator for Intergroup Education in Philadelphia.

It is hoped that these seminar sessions will provide an extension and application of the content of the two morning class segments in language and composition, that they will provide experiences which are carefully planned and directed and that an important use of discussion and audio visual learning resources may be made.

Cooperating with the fulltime staff of the institute will be members of the university's Department of Elementary Education faculty, with Dr. P. D. Lott as chairman. They will serve as consultants.

Selection of 30 participants presently teaching language arts in Grades 3-8 who have taught at least three years and who have at least ten years of teaching remaining before retirement will be made by the entire institute staff.

Each applicant must possess an undergraduate record that shows ability to do graduate work in the content of the institute program, evidence of a teaching contract for the following year and recommendation by his principal or supervisor regarding his professional interest and promise for future responsibility and influence as a teacher of language arts.

A graduate level institute, this program at its completion will afford participants six hours of graduate credit. A followup program of visitations to classrooms of the teacher participants to advise on putting institute learning into practice will be built into the program.

As in past years, the institute will be housed and completely self contained in Turnbull Hall on the university campus. All applicants must agree to live in the dormitory and to participate in the program fulltime.

Additional information concerning this summer institute in English may be secured by writing to Dr. James R. Green, Chairman, Department of English, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pennsylvania 15701.

Deadline for news for June issue is May 1.

Resignation Of Six Faculty Members Accepted By Board Of Trustees

Indiana University of Pennsylvania's Board of Trustees at its regular winter quarterly meeting recently approved the resignations of six faculty members, four of whom are retiring, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of the university.

Resigning in order to retire at this time are Mrs. Anna Wink, Director of the Computer Center; Dr. Willis H. Bell of the Department of Biology; Mrs. Marian Kipp of the Department of Mathematics; and Gertrude Ritzert of the Department of English at the Armstrong County Center in Kittanning.

Also resigning are Glenn W. Olsen of the Department of Mathematics, effective February 24, and Helen Paz-Garcia of the Department of Foreign Languages. All resignations except that of Olsen are effective at the close of the current academic year, with the exception that Mrs. Wink will remain through the summer should a replacement not be found by June.

Mrs. Wink has been a member of the faculty at Indiana since 1963 and has seen the university's Computer Center grow from its beginnings to a large and efficient complex. She had previously been on the staff at Pennsylvania State University for 23 years from 1940 to 1963.

Dr. Bell is a veteran of 24 years of service with the Indiana University faculty, having first joined the staff in 1944. After graduating from Grove City College, he earned both master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Kipp, wife of Dr. Orval Kipp, longtime former chairman of the Art Department at Indiana, has been a member of the faculty since 1949 after having taught at Somerset, Hollidaysburg and Shade Township (Somerset County) High Schools and at Shade Township Elementary School.

Olsen, who has currently been on leave from the university in order to pursue his doctorate, had been a member of the Indiana faculty since 1960 after having taught at Randolph-East Mead High School at Guys Mills in Crawford County.

Miss Paz-Garcia joined the staff at the university this past September after having taught at Murray State University of Kentucky, as a teaching fellow at the University of Pittsburgh, at Chatham College and at the Johnstown Center of Pitt.

Miss Ritzert has taught at the Armstrong County Center since 1963 after having been a cooperating teacher in the university's student teaching program for eight years from 1954 to 1962 and teaching at Butler High School for 16 years from 1947 to 1963, at Butler Junior High for 28 years from 1919 to 1947 and at the McKean Street School in Butler.

The Board also granted sabbatical leaves of absence for the second semester of the 1968-69 academic year to Dr. Thomas G. Gault, William E. Lafranchi, Charles A. Davis, Ann Elliott and Robert C. Seelhorst and for the first semester to Samuel G. Smith.

Dr. Gault is chairman of the Department of Geography, Lafranchi Head Librarian, Davis a member of the Department of Music and Music Education faculty, Miss Elliott with the Department of Women's Physical Education, Seelhorst with the Department of Art and Art Education, and Smith with the Department of Men's Physical Education.

Also approved were leaves of absence without salary for Ronald L. McBride of the Department of Mathematics for the full 1968-69 academic year and for William McCavitt of the Department of Learning Resources and Mass Media for the second semester of that year. McCavitt is also Coordinator of Radio and Television.

Gerald Stern, a member of the Department of English faculty who has been on leave during the current academic year, was granted approval for extension of his leave of absence without salary through the 1968-69 year.

Acting on recommendation of the Food Service Committee of the Student Government Association at the university, the Board renewed the contract for university food service through the 1968-69 academic year with the ARA Slater Corporation.

Slater, under the direction of John J. Scanlan, Food Service Director, has for the past several years staffed and serviced the three main dining halls on campus as well as providing food service for the Student Union building and for various other campus activities.

Dr. Pratt informed the Board that the University Foundation had recently been in receipt of an anonymous gift of stock dividends over a period of ten years which will provide an amount of approximately $2250 annually—representing a total of $22,500—for whatever use the Executive Committee may determine.

Syntron Foundation, which has supported the university and its students in a variety of ways over the past several years, has also recently made grants to the university for the current year of $20,000 for scholarships and of $1000 for use by the Rhodes R. Stabley Library.

Dr. Pratt further informed the Board that, according to a publication of the state Department of Public Instruction listing college board scores and high school ranks of freshman classes, Indiana University has once again—as it has for the past several years—surpassed all other state owned institutions in Pennsylvania in quality of student body.

Revised Campus Expansion Plan Approved by Dept. of Public Instruction

Indiana University of Pennsylvania's Board of Trustees was recently informed by Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of the university, that the revised campus plan which they had approved last spring has now been approved by the state Department of Public Instruction.

Designed to project planned campus buildings and development through 1980 (when a university enrollment of approximately 15,000 is foreseen), the campus plan represents a very tentative blueprint for future growth. It has been forwarded to the General State Authority (GSA) for its information.

Calling for a total $90 million public investment between now and 1980, the campus plan envisions a North Campus (comprised of the present campus area plus that land to be purchased in the urban redevelopment tract along Pratt Drive) and a vast new South Campus to the southwest of the present campus.

Nine new buildings—a Learning Research Center, men's dormitory complex, maintenance building, health center, military hall, fine arts building and a university student center—are presently under construction or soon to be placed under construction with completion to be accomplished by 1970.

Tentatively planned for the North Campus area prior to 1980 are two new dining halls, a greenhouse, home management facilities, women's health and physical education building, new field house, four classroom buildings, a major new library with a million volume goal and several parking facilities.

Envisioned for the South Campus are a new stadium as well as a possibility of constructing several integrated residential-instructional units in which students would both live and dine and attend classes while retaining contact with the North Campus for library, cultural and social purposes.

At the same time that it learned of approval of this plan by the Department of Public Instruction, the Board of Trustees at its regular winter quarterly meeting approved two recommendations for changes in that plan as proposed by the University Senate.

Wilson Hall, which had been scheduled to be razed, will now be retained. And the location of a proposed women's health and physical education building will now be changed to the site of the present tennis courts so that a large parking area may be developed on Maple Street between Eleventh and Thirteenth, where the women's gym was to have been built.

Increased building and development on the Indiana campus is in line with stepped up enrollments at the university. Enrollment for the coming 1968-69 academic year will reach approximately 7400 fulltime undergraduates, a number approved by the Department of Public Instruction a few years ago.

Predicted enrollments for coming years are as follows—8000 in 1969-70, 8700 in 1970-71, 9500 in 1971-72, 10,200 in 1972-73, 11,000 in 1973-74, 11,800 in 1974-75 and 12,500 in 1975-76. Indiana will then add approximately 500 students per year until it reaches the 15,000 mark in 1980.

Contemporary Europe Travel-Study Tour Offered By Social Science Department

Contemporary Europe 1968, a six week study-travel tour project which will visit ten different countries in Europe, will again be sponsored this summer by Indiana University of Pennsylvania for the fourth consecutive year.

Designed this year to emphasize the contrasts between East and West, this study tour represents a completely new and radically different routing and area of study. Opportunities to observe and study sharply contrasting social systems give this year's tour a truly distinctive quality.

Highlights of the tour include official tours of Leningrad and Moscow (two and a half days in the latter city) in the Soviet Union and visits for the first time to the Scandinavian countries of Norway, Denmark and Finland and to both Ireland and Scotland.

Included on the itinerary for Scotland is an intensive in-residence period of study at the University of Aberdeen, constituting a full five days of the tour and giving the students an opportunity to experience campus life at a foreign university.

Included in the total tour program, in addition to the above mentioned countries, are visits to Great Britain, Germany, Switzerland and France. This represents a total of ten.

Travel will include not only sightseeing but also a social program in which attendance at plays and musical performances will provide a view of the cultural life of Europe and informal opportunities of student get togethers, swimming parties and related activities will provide personal contacts with Europeans.

This full program is intended as a course of intensive study of that part of the Western world from which our culture springs, with the added opportunity to observe the operations of contrasting systems in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union; it is thus much more than a travel course for credit.

Toward this end, a total of 19 seminars on various topics will be led as lectures, discussions and meetings by international authorities, information officers, journalists, labor leaders and teachers. This program is flexible enough so that changes in the current world scene can effect program changes.

Director for the tour will be Dr. Esko E. Newhill, a member of the Department of Sociology-Anthropology faculty at Indiana since 1960.

The study-travel project carries with it either six undergraduate or six graduate credit hours and is devoted to the study of not only the geography but also the politics, economics, sociology, history and culture of the countries visited.

Before departure students will do background reading; during the tour they will attend the seminars in addition to the regular sightseeing, and they will maintain an extensive diary of their observations on the tour. Total project cost will be $1529 exclusive of an $84 tuition fee.

Tentative plans for the tour, which is open to all college and graduate students who qualify on the basis of academic achievement and personal characteristics, call for departure from the United States by jet to Shannon, Ireland, June 24 with return from London tentatively set for July 29.

Additional information on the tour (detailed proposed itinerary, cost, etc.) is available upon request. Interested persons should write to Dr. Esko E. Newhill, Department of Sociology-Anthropology, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pennsylvania 15701.

Department Of Criminology Offers Two Institutes Under Federal Grants

Indiana University of Pennsylvania has recently been awarded two federal grants of $9626 and $4455 respectively for the sponsoring of an Arrest, Search and Seizure Institute and a Civil Disturbances Control Institute through its Department of Criminology.

With the Arrest, Search and Seizure Institute scheduled for next fall and the Civil Disturbances Control Institute slated for the following spring, the two grants awarded by the federal government under Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965 will be matched by university funds.

Both institutes will be an integral part of the program of the university's Department of Criminology, Harry W. More chairman, the only such department in the state of Pennsylvania offering work leading to a baccalaureate degree in criminology.

It can be said that the entire population of the state may indirectly benefit from the Arrest, Search and Seizure Institute, because that program will be offered at 15 different State Police troop headquarters training centers throughout Pennsylvania by way of tele-lecture.

Instruction will be presented both over closed circuit television by legal specialists and in discussion or conference groups at each of the training centers with a local attorney having knowledge of criminal law. As many as 600 participants may be enrolled.

Topics to be covered will include arrests, search without a warrant, search warrants, interrogation, rules of evidence, preparation of cases for court, movement and exchange of prisoners, civil liability, material witnesses and juveniles.

It is the objective of this institute to provide specialized training in the constitutional rules of law as they apply to this area so as to provide police officers with the skills that are needed when they become involved in incidents that require an interpretation of the law.

Police will thus be able to preserve an acceptable balance between law and order and the welfare of the individual, thus resulting in improved police performance more effectively meeting the requirements of the law and protecting the civil rights of citizens in communities throughout the state.

Part of the overall Department of Criminology goal to professionalize police service, this institute is especially relevant in terms of the complexity of recent court decisions in the area of arrest, search and seizure which emphasize the need for a training or retraining program for officers in this aspect of their duties.

Project director for this institute will be Dr. Stanley Cohen, a member of the department faculty at the university, who will work in cooperation with various local police departments and the State Police.

Planned in cooperation with the Western Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association for 40 participants, the Civil Disturbance Control Institute will be presented in six sessions on the university campus for a total of 30 hours of instruction. More will be project director.

Presented primarily by police officials who are experts on civil disturbance control, the institute will be designed for administrators, supervisors, training officers and other law enforcement officers drawn from throughout Western Pennsylvania.

"This is an action program in that it involves competent staff, appropriate participants, adequate planning and concentration on an important and timely community problem by those in a position to put their instruction immediately to work if and when needed," comments More.

Civil disturbances, such as the 151 major flareups which occurred last summer with their attendant destruction of property and loss of life, are causing increasing concern and constitute one of the major problems confronting society today. And the outlook for the future is not good.

This institute will provide police officers with specialized instruction in civil disturbance prevention and control, with the knowledge and skills needed to deal with all types of civil disturbances.

Specifically its program of instruction will deal with the lawful basis on which police may act in riot situations, underlying factors contributing to civil disturbances and traditional as well as up to date procedures that law enforcement officers and military personnel have employed to protect life and property and to restore the peace.

An attempt will be made to stress an understanding of crowd behavior, basic psychology, good public relations and the use of police intelligence and the formulation of plans which are flexible enough to assure that available manpower and equipment are used to their best advantage.

Additional details on both institutes, including the dates on which they will be presented and the instructional staff for each, will be announced at a future date by the Department of Criminology and the university. Many of these details will be planned in special advisory sessions this summer.

Military Hall Construction Grant Approved by Commonwealth Commission

FEDERAL GRANT APPLICATION FOR INDIANA UNIVERSITY ROTC BUILDING APPROVED BY STATE

Application for a federal grant in the amount of $194,526 to be used toward construction of a new Military Science Building at Indiana University of Pennsylvania for use by its Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) has recently been approved by the Pennsylvania State Commission on Academic Facilities.

While final approval must still be given by the Regional United States Office of Education, Dr. Charles D. Leach, Director of Development at the university, is confident that this will become a reality before the end of the fiscal year 1968.

Under Title I of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963, the federal government can provide up to a third of the eligible development costs of an academic building development. It is believed that Indiana University will be the first to receive such a grant for a military science building.

Under the authority of the State Legislature of Pennsylvania, the General State Authority will provide the remainder of the funds for the presently estimated $614,291 building.

According to Lt. Col. Charles B. Stevenson, professor of military science at Indiana, facilities to be included in the new building—particularly the classrooms with closed circuit television—will be very similar to ones now found in the Army War College.

Plans for the building, drawn by the architectural firm of Kaclik and Graves, call for the structure to contain three modern classrooms, a lecture hall, supply room, rifle range and administrative offices for staff of the Department of Military Science.

Rapid growth of the university to an undergraduate enrollment of 7000, strong support given by Dr. Willis E. Pratt, university President, and the total faculty and a select ROTC staff have prompted the demand for a new Military Science Building.

With the university's Corps of Cadets now comprising approximately 1300 men (third largest in the state of Pennsylvania), ROTC growth at Indiana has rendered present facilities inadequate and has thus necessitated a new building.

According to Lt. Col. Stevenson, "Hopefully our experiences at Indiana will pave the way for other colleges and universities needing new military science buildings to obtain supplemental funds from the federal government. They should make application for such grants through their state commissions."

7,000 Undergraduate Students Begin Second Semester Classes

Slightly more than 7000 students at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, including the Armstrong County (Kittanning) and Punxsutawney Centers of the university, began classes for the second semester of the current academic year Monday, January 29, 1968.

Included in that number are approximately 400 students who were not in attendance at the university during the first semester which started in September. Comprising the latter number are students in three different categories.

Approximately 240 are "ABC" (Acceptable, But Closed) freshmen who began their studies last summer and who now return to the campus to resume their academic programs. Also included are 60 new entrants (transfers and incoming freshmen) and more than 90 returnees who have been absent from campus for a semester or more.

For the remainder of the more than 7000, the beginning of classes for the new semester meant the close of a vacation break between semesters which began the week before.

The 60 transfers and incoming freshmen arrived at the university Friday afternoon, January 26, for an orientation program which was designed to introduce them to university academic, cultural and social life.

After registering and programming Friday afternoon, the new students attended a general orientation session Saturday morning at Cogswell Hall Auditorium with Dr. S. Trevor Hadley, Dean of Students at the university, in charge.

At that time Dr. Ralph Cordier, Dean of Academic Affairs, spoke on "The Academic Program of the University," and Dr. Hadley, Dean of Women Cleo McCracken and Dean of Men Dr. Elwood Sheeder talked on "Student Personnel Services at the University."

Christopher Knowlton, manager of the Student Union, told about the Student Cooperative Association and the Student Union, while Ron Lunardini, recently elected president of Student Government, introduced the students to the Student Government Association.

Following the formal orientation session, a buzz session was held as a free question and answer period at which time the administrative staff of the university as well as selected students were present to answer pertinent questions.

Degrees Awarded To 300 At Mid-Winter Commencement

Nearly 300 graduates received both baccalaureate and graduate degrees from Indiana University of Pennsylvania in annual winter commencement exercises Sunday afternoon, January 14, 1968.

Delivering the principal address on the subject of "Education and Values in a Free Society" was Dr. S. E. Gerard Priestly, professor of political science at Union College in Kentucky who has served as a distinguished visiting professor at Indiana University for the past semester.

Included in those receiving degrees were 230 undergraduates who were granted various baccalaureate degrees (162 bachelor of science in education, 28 bachelor of arts, 13 bachelor of science in art education, 19 bachelor of science in home economics, five bachelor of science in music education and three bachelor of science in natural sciences and mathematics).

Also awarded were 48 master of education degrees as well as five master of arts degrees, making a total of 283 university students and graduate students receiving degrees. These totals represent new highs in both divisions for a January commencement.

Ten military commissions in the U. S. Army as second lieutenants, representing completion of the four year Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program, were also awarded. Three of these commissions were granted in the Regular Army, seven in the Army Reserve.

Dr. Priestly is regarded as an experienced and dynamic speaker, one of the outstanding personalities on the international lecture platform. A historian and political scientist by training, he has achieved distinction and recognition as a specialist in international relations and diplomacy as a result of many years of study in the United States and abroad.

At the commencement exercises Dr. Pratt conferred all academic degrees, while Dr. Ralph W. Cordier, Dean of Academic Affairs and Dean of Faculty at the university, introduced the Deans of the eight schools which comprise the organization of the institution.

Military commissions were granted by Lt. Col. Charles B. Stevenson, professor of military science and commandant of the ROTC at the university. Invocation and benediction were offered by Rev. Raymond E. Rockwell, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Indiana.

George Seacrist, president of the university Faculty Association and a member of the English Department staff, led both the processional and recessional. Catherine Carl, a member of the Music and Music Education Department faculty, provided organ music.

A reception was sponsored following commencement for all those receiving graduate degrees and for honored guests at Foster Dining Hall. This tea was arranged by the Graduate School, Dr. I. L. Stright, Dean,

Dr. William W. Betts Jr., Assistant Dean, and Dr. George T. Wiley, Director of Graduate Research.

At the same time, the ROTC sponsored a reception at Foster Dining Hall for the ten men who received commissions at commencement. This took place immediately following the exercises and was arranged by Lt. Col. Stevenson and his staff.

News and Activities of the Units

REUNION, CLASS OF 1902

The Class of 1902 held its sixty-five year reunion at the University in May 1967. There were 93 members in the graduating class and six returned for the anniversary. Those who attended the reunion were Mrs. Lillian Waldschmidt Brown, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Nellie Wait Clark, New Castle, Pennsylvania, Samuel K. Cunningham and wife, Edna Cunningham (1913), Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Florence Wilson Long and daughter, New Castle, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Grace Cunningham Miller, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Charles S. Ray, Paden City, West Virginia.

PITTSBURGH-NORTH BOROUGH'S UNIT

Our Unit has been saddened again, by the death of another member, Miss Caroline Lauman, of the Class of 1901. She had a very successful career as the librarian in Sewickley, Pennsylvania until her retirement. We all shall miss her because of the silent lessons of faith, patience, cheerfulness and hope we gleaned from her. The sympathy of the Unit was extended to her family and friends.

Many of our members are spending these unusually cold, snowy, slippery days of winter in sunny Florida and California. Lucky they! But, we are looking forward to welcoming them back for two very important events on our agenda. The first will be a luncheon and business meeting at Kaufmann's on March 9. Our president, Miss Catherine Taylor, will preside; Miss Louise Crooks, as secretary, will present the minutes of the last meetings, and record the news of the day, while Miss Margaret Allen, the treasurer, will receive dues. Miss Beatrice Jeffries will be in charge of arrangements.

The second event will be held on the second Saturday in May in the form of our spring luncheon. This will be at the delightful College Club with Miss Helen Falkenstein in charge of arrangements.

"If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" We hope not! So, we'll see you when spring breaks through again.

WASHINGTON D.C. UNIT

Our fall calendar began Saturday, September 23 with a picnic given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Palmer (Martha Jane Nesbitt) in Falls Church, Virginia. Due to chilly weather, the group moved indoors to the Palmer's recreation room where an appetizing picnic supper was served—plus the added warmth and homey touch of a blazing log fire. An informal, interesting evening was enjoyed by all.

Other notes of interest of our alumni: A meeting of the Executive Committee members and their families was held December 2 by our president Dorothy Ramale in her new home, which she and her sister recently purchased in Arlington, Virginia. The evening was a pre-holiday party with viewing of European slides taken on her recent trip. Unfortunately, due to an early snowfall and icy roads, only Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gienger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarvie, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Palmer were able to attend.

Our annual All Pennsylvania College Alumni Association Citation Luncheon was held February 3 at the Shoreham Hotel—this year being our 20th Anniversary.

Our president, Miss Dorothy Ramale, presented the Citation in behalf of all Pennsylvania Alumni to Dr. David Dodds Henry, President of the University of Illinois. Dr. Henry is a native of Pennsylvania, having received his three degrees, A.B.; A.M.; and Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University.

Miss Mary L. Esch of Indiana University presented a Pennsylvania State Flag to the Association—this being the climax of our local project.

Those in attendance from Pennsylvania and the campus were—Miss Mary L. Esch, Dr. Joy Mahachek, Paula Jerto, Mary Kellar, and Catherine Taylor.

Locally, those in attendance were: Dorothy Ramale, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gienger, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Funk, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Forrest Shaffer, Mrs. James T. Vail, Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw, Nora Lee Orndorff, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Lehman, Mrs. Donald Palmer, and Mr. William V. Whittington. Others in attendance were Miss Charlotte Plasan (Lycoming), former corresponding secretary of APCAA, Miss Lucille Ramale, and Mr. Donald Palmer.

After the luncheon, Miss Ramale entertained the above guests at her home in Virginia. Later in the evening a buffet supper was served. It was a delightful and informal gathering for old friends from the campus and our local chapter.

An interesting item concerns Mr. William V. Whittington, an honorary member of our Alumni Association and husband of the late Vashti Burr Whittington, our former president and founder of the APCAA. Val recently received his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Georgetown University. Being a legal adviser for the State Department, he was present Friday, October 27, 1967 in the White House Rose Garden when the President of the United States and Mexico signed the Chamizal Treaty.

Robert J. Killen, assistant principal of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, has been selected by the U.S. Office of Education to participate in a six-week globe trotting seminar for school administrators, sponsored by the Fulbright Program.

The annual meeting of the APCAA will be held at Thiel College campus, Greenville, Pennsylvania, May 11, 1968. We hope many of our members will be able to attend and accept this cordial invitation.

Our own alumni meeting (an afternoon tea) will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarvie in Arlington, Virginia Sunday, March 31, at 3:00 P.M. Kathryn, (Mrs. Jarvie), our official representative from our D.C. Unit, was unable to attend the recent Citation Luncheon due to surgery. However, she is now recuperating at home.

Our last bit of news concerns our president, Dorothy Ramale: She had the misfortune to fall and dislocate her left foot, breaking several bones. This was January 15 during our first big snowfall. She is recuperating at home and expects to be out of school for some time. Despite this handicap and being on crutches, she very gallantly presided at the Citation Luncheon and did a fine, professional job. We salute her courage!

THE TARENTUM UNIT

Jardine's Restaurant, near Sarver, provided a beautiful setting for the fall meeting of the Indiana University of Pennsylvania Alumni. Thirty-one members enjoyed a delicious steak or chicken dinner with all the trimmings.

Presiding over the business meeting was Mrs. Margo D. Masarik, president. To aid her for the next two years are Miss Sue Beck, vice president; Miss Martha Freehling, secretary; Mrs. Margaret Starke, treasurer; and Mrs. Dorothy Slack, corresponding secretary.

A film, "Pennsylvania Land of Plenty," helped recall many beauties and resources of Pennsylvania. It was shown by Mr. Raymond Applegate of the Bell Telephone Company.

The December meeting was held at the Holiday Inn, New Kensington. Mrs. Elda Mae Hamilton, social chairman, and her committee Miss Pat Bair, Miss Edith Dawson, Mrs. Edna Jones, Miss Arlene Nevergold, Mrs. Mary Margaret Podrasky, and Mrs. Amy Wadding, made the arrangements.

Beautiful table decorations and favors were constructed by Mary Margaret Podrasky's Special Education classes. In keeping with the season, the group sang Christmas Carols led by Elda Mae Hamilton and accompanied by Martha Freehling.

An interesting and informative demonstration of wigs followed the singing. It was conducted by Diane and Carol from "My Fair Lady" wig salon, Natrona Heights. Alumni members enjoyed serving as models for the demonstrators. At the February meeting we will be watching to see who has purchased a wig.

TEA WITH MRS. LILY McKAIN TERBUSH

The last week-day in the Old Year, Mrs. Terbush gave a tea in her spacious home on State Road, Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania.

The following Indiana graduates for whom the tea was given came all in holiday spirit—Mildred Mullen Cable, Mary Edna Flegal, Roseanne Ball Hane, Sara Patsy High, Dorothy Heyden Hoehler, Mae Stephens Robinson, Mary Rood Schuckers, Helen Bruner Snyder, Margaret Wallace Van Ormer, and Margaret Cravener Viguers.

The house was gay with Christmas decoration. The conversation was lively, centering largely on Indiana and what should be done to attract the young graduates in the area to attend the meetings of the Philadelphia Unit.

No one offered a solution (common practice) to turn the sad world to peace and joy. There was quite a bit said about exercise and diet. That leads to right things for a tea served by the hostess and fine appointments for serving.

Darkness began to fall and then best wishes for 1968 and good night.

TRI-TOWNSHIP UNIT

The Tri-Township Alumni Unit of Indiana University of Pennsylvania held its annual Christmas party in the Penn Run Grange Hall December fourth. Twenty-nine members and guests were present. A bountiful and delicious dinner was served by ladies of the Grange. The tables were beautifully decorated with candles, boughs, bows, and colorful favors.

The invocation was given by the Rev. William J. Legge, pastor of the Clymer and Penn Run United Presbyterian Churches. Mrs. Vivian C. Lovell presided at the dinner and read a letter of greetings to the Unit from Miss Mary L. Esch, Executive Secretary of the General Alumni Association.

Miss Elda Bence, a guidance counselor at Penns Manor High School, showed slides and commented on her visit to the Holy Land during July of this year. Many places sacred to Christians and Jews were shown, and primitive and modern modes of life were in sharp contrast. The changes wrought by the six days war were typified by the assembling of the Jews at the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem.

A period of carol singing was directed by Rev. Legge. Mrs. Virginia Neal served as pianist.

The gift exchange was conducted by Miss Mae Brown from a table draped in green and heaped with beautiful packages surrounding two gaily decorated Christmas trees.

Those in attendance were: Rev. and Mrs. Legge, Miss Elda Bence, Mrs. Lena Conner, Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, Mrs. Virginia Neal, Mrs. Gertrude Patterson, Mrs. Sara Thorburn, Mrs. Hazel Myers, Mrs. Sarah Lewis, Mrs. Matilda Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keating, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Gromley, Mrs. Chrissie Stahl, the Misses June Emigh, Mary and Sarah Bagley, Mae and Grace Brown, Margaret and Violet Overman, Mrs. Dorothy Parry, Mrs. Nellie Fyock, Charles Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lovell.
